A SIGNIFICANT HISTORY

A WORK OF ART

— Robert Adam
1728–1792

Originally built in 1775, this Grade I listed building features some of the most splendid and best-preserved interiors by the renowned Neoclassical architect Robert Adam and, as a result, holds a distinct place in national heritage.

Combining contemporary design with traditional architecture, the restored property sets a new standard of excellence through the superior craftsmanship and meticulous attention to detail displayed in its restoration and refurbishment.

The site was originally built as a three-bay London townhouse for Sir Watkin Williams-Wynn, a Welsh aristocrat.

Historic details has been cleaned and meticulously restored by heritage paint specialists, and the restored interiors celebrate the elegance of the Adam interior.
